1. Prepare and cook

1. Heat 1 tbsp neutral oil over medium heat. Cook 1 chopped onion and 1 seeded, finely chopped jalapeño about 8 minutes. Add 2 finely chopped garlic cloves, 1 tsp oregano, and 1 tsp cumin; cook 1 minute. Add 5 cups broth and two 4 1/2 oz cans green chiles; season with salt and pepper. Boil, then simmer 10-12 minutes.

2. Add two 15 oz cans drained and rinsed white beans. Simmer about 10 minutes, smashing roughly one-quarter of the beans. Add 1 1/2 cups frozen corn and the cooked, shredded meat from 2 chicken breasts; heat through about 1 minute. Remove from heat; stir in 1/2 cup sour cream. The listed 8 oz cream cheese has no addition step; confirm before cooking.

3. Ladle into bowls. Divide toppings as desired: 1 sliced avocado, 1/4 cup chopped cilantro, 1/4 cup crushed tortilla chips, and 8 oz shredded Monterey Jack.

Notes

Source lists 8 oz cream cheese without an addition step. Confirm how it is intended to be incorporated. Chicken is already cooked sous vide and shredded before starting.
