1. Prepare and cook

1. Whip 1/2 cup Dijon mustard, 1/2 cup honey, 1 1/2 tsp vegetable oil, and 1/2 tsp lemon juice about 30 seconds. Pour roughly two-thirds over 4 chicken breasts; cover and refrigerate about 2 hours. Refrigerate the other third separately for brushing and serving. Heat oven to 375°F. Heat 1 tbsp vegetable oil in an ovenproof skillet over medium heat.

2. Sear the chicken in the pan for 3-4 minutes per side or until golden brown. Remove pan from heat but keep chicken in the pan.

3. While chicken cooks, sauté 2 cups sliced mushrooms in 2 tbsp butter. Brush each seared breast with some of the clean reserved marinade; save a little for serving.

4. Season the chicken with salt, pepper and paprika. Stack two pieces of cooked bacon, crosswise on each chicken breast. Spoon the sauteed mushrooms onto the bacon, being sure to coat each breast evenly. Sprinkle 1/4 cup

Monterey Jack cheese evenly onto each breast followed by 1/4 cup of Cheddar. Bake the pan of prepared chicken breasts for 7-10 minutes or until cheese is thoroughly melted and starting to bubble. Sprinkle each breast with 1/2 teaspoon parsley before serving. Put extra honey mustard marinade into a small bowl to serve on the side.
